Personal information (or personal data) is any information which relates to and identifies you. Data protection legislation, the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and the Data Protection Law (L.125/2018), set out how we should handle your personal information.

Our contact details

The University of Central Lancashire Cyprus, UCLan Cyprus, is the data controller for the personal information we process, unless otherwise stated.

There are many ways you can contact us, including by phone, email, social media and post.

Our Data Protection Officer

UCLan Cyprus' Data Protection Officer, Mr. Stylianos N. Christoforou, can be contacted at DPO@uclancyprus.ac.cy.

What personal information will we use?

The University uses information you provide when you register your interest in studying at UCLan Cyprus. We collect this information when you book on events; when you make enquiries by phone, email, live chat, social media or other similar methods; when you request a prospectus; when you visit our stand at an exhibition or fair or when you enter a scholarship competition, or when you make enquiries via a Local or International Agent who has an agreement with us.

Why do we use your personal data?

When you make an enquiry about studying at UCLan Cyprus, we will use your information to answer your enquiry and to communicate effectively with you via email, post, telephone, text (SMS), social media or other methods, as appropriate. We like to keep in touch with our enquirers and will also use your information to send you messages about University events such as open days, and to keep you updated about a variety of things which may be helpful if you are considering applying to study here if you have requested for us to do so.

We may also use your information, anonymised, for research purposes, including conducting surveys and market research, compiling statistics and for internal reporting purposes, to help us with corporate planning and to improve our customer service.

What is the legal basis for this processing?

The University relies on the following legal bases from the GDPR to process information about you for the purposes set out in this notice:

Article 6(1)(a), which allows us to process personal data where you have provided your consent. Where we rely on consent, we will ensure your consent is freely given, fully informed and that you can withdraw it at any time. We rely on your consent to send some types of messages which inform you about University events, services and products.

Article 6(1)(f), which allows us to process personal data where it is in our, or someone else's, legitimate interests to do so and it does not unduly prejudice your rights and freedoms. We rely on this condition to, among other things:

- respond to your enquiry and keep records of your enquiry and our response.
- communicate some types of messages to you which inform you about University events, services and products (unless you opt out). It is in the University's legitimate interests to promote its services, courses and events to those who may be interested.
- produce some internal reports, research and statistics. It is in our legitimate interests to use these to evaluate, plan and assess how the University is operating and make any changes we think are appropriate and will benefit current and future students.

Who will my personal information be shared with?

If you make an enquiry, we only share your personal data with another person or organisation where the law allows us to and we consider it to be appropriate under the circumstances. The external parties we may share information with include the following:

- Companies or organisations acting on our behalf: We use data processors who are third parties who provide elements of services for us. We have contracts in place with our data processors for the protection of personal data. This means that they cannot do anything with your personal information unless we have instructed them to do it. They will hold it securely and retain it for the period we instruct.
- Local and International agents who have an agreement with us and with whom you have given your details directly so that they can pass on your enquiry to us.

Sending your information outside the EU

Occasionally we may need to send your personal information outside the EU e.g. to obtain a service from a data processor. If you are an international applicant, we may transfer your information i.e. your enquiry details to our colleagues in your country if they are best-placed to answer your queries. These transfers are usually carried out with your consent or because they are necessary steps in order to provide you with the information you need to decide whether or not to enter into a student contract with us. All transfers are carried out with appropriate safeguards in place to protect your information and ensure it remains secure.

How long will we keep your personal information?

We will retain your information until the autumn of your intended year of study. If you do not provide an intended year of study when you make your enquiry, we will retain your information for three years from the date we receive your enquiry before destroying them.
